

COMPUTER

CH: 1 & 2 COMPUTER OVERVIEW, INPUT AND OUTPUT DEVICES

Name: _____

Date: _____

Class: IV Sec: ____

1. Fill in the blanks

- a. The computer works on the basis of _____.
- b. _____ is the collection of words, numbers, entered into the computer by input devices.
- c. _____ are given to the computer in the form of programs or software.
- d. Keyboard is an example of _____ device.
- e. _____ is called the brain of the computer.
- f. The computer uses _____ to store its work.
- g. _____ produce output in different forms.
- h. _____ is the physical part of the computer that you can touch and see.
- i. _____ accept data and instructions.
- j. The action performed by the CPU on data is called _____.
- k. The result obtained after processing the data is called _____.
- l. The _____ holds the CPU and provides connectors for other peripherals.
- m. The three parts of CPU are _____.

2. Choose the correct answer from the given brackets.

(keyboard, mouse, game controller, monitor, webcam, MICR, visual display unit)

1. _____ are used in banks to read the numbers on cheques.
2. A joystick is also called _____.
3. A _____ is used to enter data and instructions by typing.
4. _____ takes pictures and put them into a computer.
5. _____ is a pointing device use to give input and do work on the computer.
6. The monitor is also called the _____.
7. _____ is like a TV screen.

3. Write the expanded form of the following terms.

1. VDU- _____
2. CPU- _____
3. MICR- _____
4. ALU- _____
5. MMU- _____
6. CU- _____

4. Write true or false.

1. The main processing device in a computer is CPU. _____
2. Hard disk is an input device. _____
3. Monitor processes data according to the given instructions. _____
4. Instructions are given to the computer in the form of programs or software. _____
5. All hardware parts are connected to the monitor. _____
6. A light pen is a pointing device shaped like a pen. _____
7. A laptop computer has a touchpad instead of a mouse. _____
8. Barcode reader is used in banks to read the numbers on cheques. _____
9. A plotter is used to print good-quality drawings. _____